

Dear FCC,

I am deeply concerned over the proposed changes to FCC allowing more concentration of media ownership. I believe that our fragile democracy will be harmed by allowing media companies to own large numbers of media outlets in small markets. The fact that this issue has been poorly covered on all the major networks excepting NPR/PBS demonstrates the control that Corporate America already exerts over the content of mainstream news broadcasts. If anything, I think the FCC should be changing the ownership rules to increase independent and local control of radio and TV stations.
